1 Courses by term

Every course the instructor owns on CoursedUp in the scope, grouped by term. Weeks posted: course weeks with a published post. Fill: the platform's post fill rate (weeks with a post over the weeks the course has run). Uses and Distinct: catalogue activities recorded in the posts. Network: students · peers · followers.

2 Term by term

The platform's teaching analytics run once per term (its Year and Semester filter). Per week: activity uses divided by the latest week reached in that term.

Term	Uses	Distinct	Per week	Comments	Summaries	Muddiest
				received on the term's posts
Fall 2025-26	229	46	14.31	339	190	100

3 Activity intensity and diversity

The platform compares the instructor with the single most active instructor in the School, the University and the Discipline (shown on the platform as Department, University and Discipline). The grey track runs to that highest value, the dark tick marks the median instructor of the group, and rank counts the instructors with a higher value (ties share a rank). Only instructors with at least one recorded activity are in a group.

this record · range up to the highest value in the group · group median

ACTIVITY USES (INTENSITY)

School — rank 2 of 58 · median 540.5 · top 936
University — rank 6 of 389 · median 549 · top 1,033
Discipline — rank 1 of 18 · median 213.5 · top 927

DISTINCT ACTIVITIES (DIVERSITY)

School — rank 19 of 58 · median 100 · top 131
University — rank 145 of 389 · median 103 · top 140
Discipline — rank 2 of 18 · median 57.5 · top 122

4 Teaching, engagement and assessment

Each catalogue activity belongs to one or more of three dimensions — Teaching, Engagement and Assessment. The lists show this instructor's most used activities in each dimension (the platform's activity concentration); an activity that belongs to several dimensions appears in each of its lists. Figures are uses; beside each heading, the number of different activities used in that dimension.

5 Activity complexity

The same uses split by dimension and level (Basic, Advanced, Innovative), as the platform's complexity panel shows them. Small grey figures: the highest value any single instructor reached in the School. Cell shading follows this instructor's own counts.

	Basic	Advanced	Innovative	Total
Teaching	214 School top 233	469 School top 469	45 School top 71	728
Engagement	88 School top 136	442 School top 468	56 School top 71	586

6 Weekly posting map

One row per course, one cell per course week. A filled cell is a published weekly post; its shade is the number of catalogue activities recorded for it. Courses that had not started at the reporting point are left out.

7 Peer and student engagement

Received: what peers and students sent to the posts of this instructor's courses. Given: what this instructor wrote or liked on posts in the same scope, on any course. The instructor's figures are the platform's own. Beside them, the average instructor of the School, the University and the Discipline: every instructor with at least one published post in the same scope counts, those with none of a kind count as zero.

Of the comments this instructor wrote, 89 were on their own courses and 372 on 53 courses taught by colleagues. The instructor is a peer on 63 courses and follows 55 other courses. The network figure counts 290 student, 209 peer and 242 follower links; one person in several courses counts in each.

About this report

What it is. A summary of this instructor's teaching activity on CoursedUp at the reporting point. The headline figures — courses, network, activity uses, distinct activities, the dimension and complexity counts and the received/given interactions — are the output of the platform's own teaching analytics function, unchanged; course rows use the platform's course analytics function. Medians, ranks, group averages, the weekly map and the comment breakdown come from read-only queries over the same records. No generative AI was used to produce any part of it.

What it is not. It is not a performance appraisal or a teaching evaluation. The counts describe what was recorded on the platform — how often and how variedly activities were documented in weekly posts — not the quality of teaching. Comparisons show a position among the platform's records, not a target.

Definitions. Activity use: one catalogue activity recorded for one weekly post. Distinct: counted once however often used. Per week of term: divided by the latest week number reached in the scope (16 for a full term), not by the number of courses. School: the instructor's faculty; the platform labels this comparison Department. Active courses: courses whose end date lies after the reporting point, including courses not yet started. Only published posts of courses whose owners are active count.
